Ike, John D. Plan 'Bread and Butter' Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Diefenbaker meet here next week in another major effort to smooth economic frictions between Canada and the United States.

The "little summit" talks, spread over four days starting Tuesday, will touch on such specific, bread-and-butter topics as wheat, water, oil, lead and zinc, and perhaps deal gingerly with fundamental differences in Canadian-American attitudes to trading relationships with Communist China.

Little detailed negotiation is expected. The main importance of the meetings will be in strengthening the understanding between the two leaders, understood to be personally sympathetic.

State Secretary Dulles will accompany the president to Ottawa but the absence of advisers suggests the visit will largely be taken up with social contacts.

There is a tendency here to wonder whether high-level talks will accomplish much in solving tricky trading problems that have largely eluded solution at lower levels.

Underlying discussions will be Canadian sensitivity about apparent U.S. indifference to Canada's growing pains in economic and commercial spheres.

Recent press reports that the president will propose that Canada be elevated to big-power status, joining the U.S., Britain and France in a new "big four," have aroused little response here. Informants say Germany and Italy would obstinately oppose any such action, which at this time—and perhaps for generations—would have little more than symbolic significance.

Hot, Happy For Weekend

Record July 4

Summer weather to be proud of is scheduled for Victoria and Vancouver Island generally this weekend.

Forecast calls for continuing sunny, dry weather with record or near-record temperatures to keep Victorians hot and happy.

The pace was set in Victoria, Friday, when the thermometer at the Gonzales Hill weather station hit 80, hottest July 4 since 1906 when the reading was 81.

At Nanaimo the temperature rose to a top of 88 Friday afternoon and more of the same was slated for today and Sunday.

Nothing Sacred

Church Boxes Looted

No place is sacred to burglars.

Yesterday morning Dean Whitlow reported to city police that Christ Church Cathedral had been entered overnight. Detectives who attended, finding no evidence of a break-in, concluded that the culprits had entered during an evening service, and stayed in the cathedral.

DONATION BOXES

They found that one donation box had been torn from a wall and taken to the rear of the church, where the padlock was forced. Padlock on a second donation box was similarly broken. Dean Whitlow estimated that about $10 had been stolen.

Later in the day the dean reported again to police, that two more donation boxes and a cupboard had been forced. Another $15 was stolen from these.

Lies May Drive U.S. to Isolation

BRUSSELS (UPI)—Former President Herbert Hoover last night denounced "vicious" anti-American propaganda being spread throughout the world and warned an audience at the World's Fair that it could drive the U.S. to retreat again into isolation.

Monday Meeting Set

Starr Takes Command Of CPR Strike Talks

Union Repulses Arbitration Bid

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister Starr announced Friday night he has called company and union representatives to a meeting here Monday in an attempt to settle the west coast seamen's strike following failure of other government measures.

The six-week strike has tied up the British Columbia fleet of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and Mr. Starr said in a press statement he is asking representatives of the CPR and the Seafarers' International Union (CLC) to meet him.

PROPOSAL REFUSED

His announcement contained the news that the SIU had refused to accept a proposal of the minister that service be resumed and that the contract dispute be referred to voluntary arbitration.

Informants said the meeting is proposed for 10 a.m. here Monday and would include CPR President N. R. Crump and Hal C. Banks, Canadian head of the SIU.

In the initial stages at least, it would not include Prime Minister Diefenbaker, but Mr. Starr would act for the government.

MINISTER'S OFFER

Mr. Starr had proposed to the disputants two days ago that the west coast service be resumed to the accompaniment of arbitration by an arbitrator named by himself who would settle the contract issue by Aug. 15.

This recommendation came to the minister from Eric Taylor, Toronto industrial relations consultant, who acted as a special inquiry commissioner for Mr. Starr in the case and on Wednesday threw up his hands at getting a settlement.

Two small unions in the dispute—representing deck and engine room officers—accepted the proposition.

CPR ACCEPTS

The CPR accepted, with the proviso that the arbitrator be a judge of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, or "of this stature" or at least acceptable to all parties.

Mr. Banks reported in a telegram to the labor minister Friday that 90.5 per cent of SIU personnel involved in the dispute at Vancouver and Victoria voted against arbitration.

There are about 300 SIU members on strike.

Sappers, Marines Delight Crowds

How to pull a sergeant majors' moustache and get away with it was demonstrated last night by Christopher Nelson, 9, who just wanted to know if it was real. The sergeant major, W. A. Causeway For Island?

OTTAWA (CP) — A short Commons discussion of the proposed New Brunswick-Prince Edward Island causeway Friday prompted Erhart Regier (CCF—Burnaby-Coquitlam) to suggest studies into a causeway that would join Vancouver Island to the mainland of British Columbia.

"You never know what will come up next," commented Works Minister Green, a British Columbian. Mr. Regier said he was being serious.

A total of $360,000 was approved during study of public works estimates for a study of the nine-mile Maritime Provinces causeway, which, Mr. Green estimated, would cost between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000.

Mr. Regier said the government should make an engineering study of the possibility of a causeway between Vancouver Island and the B.C. coast less than nine miles apart at some points.

If the government was prepared to spend $50,000,000 or more on a causeway to P.E.I., where there are less than 100,000 people, it should at least be ready to investigate the cost of a causeway to Vancouver Island.

This Boy Beat Heat

At least one person in Victoria found a way to beat the muggy heat last night.

Police cars were advised shortly after 10 p.m. that a "young boy has shed his clothes in defiance of the heat."

The temperature at the time was 66 degrees.

FIELD MARSHAL MONTGOMERY
. . . no global policy

NATO Fails Says Monty

LONDON (UPI) Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery told an American Independence Day dinner last night that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has "completely failed" globally.

So far as Europe is concerned, he said, the Atlantic alliance has done well, but not so in the international picture.

Montgomery is deputy supreme commander of NATO forces in Europe.

"The sad truth is that the United States and its European allies have completely failed to work out a common policy on a global basis, one which links NATO with the world outside NATO," he said.

Montgomery said Europe's cold war battle is won.

The East-West cold war "battleground," he declared, has shifted to "Asia, the Middle East and Africa."

Montgomery said only a "political and economic offensive" by the free world can roll communism back in these areas as North Atlantic Treat Organization armed might has done in Europe.

Mile-Long Line-ups Waiting for Ferries

NANAIMO—The Black Ball ferry terminal at Departure Bay has been besieged every day of the week by tourist traffic and yesterday cars were lined up for nearly a mile from the terminal.

Most cars arriving after 3 p.m. had to wait until 10 p.m. to board the ferry to Vancouver.

Real Killer Confesses

Dad Freed from Death Cell

GREER, S.C. (UPI) — Mrs. James F. Foster learned by accident that a former Cairo, Ill., policeman confessed to a 1956 slaying which her husband had been convicted of and placed under death sentence.

He had been scheduled to die in June but the hanging had been postponed.

"I just turned on the radio when a news broadcast began by saying this policeman had confessed to the killing that my husband was convicted of," Mrs Foster said.

"That's the first I heard about it," she said.

"This is the happiest Independence Day we've ever had," she said.

The Fosters have seven children. Six of them were home today to hear the news about their father's release.

"They've been jumping up and down with joy. They keep running to the window to see if he's coming down the road," she said. (In Jefferson, Ga., where Foster is confined, officials said Foster would be free in about one day.)

"I knew from the very beginning he didn't do it," Mrs. Foster said of her husband. "He's too good a husband and father to do it. He's just too good."

"I'm so excited I can hardly talk," she said.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

TOO many Victoria merchants are half-asleep behind their counters.

Women I know went shopping for some of those phonograph records that help you to learn French.

At each store she visited, the people said: "Sorry, we've just sold out of the French records. But we have Italian, German, Spanish or Japanese."

What would lead the salespeople, (this woman wondered) to offer me a different language?

A common motive for learning another language is a plan to visit the region where that language is spoken.

Did the people in the stores think that she would change her travel plans, and perhaps make herself a whole new career, just because they were sold out of French records?

But the people in the stores were friendly and courteous about it. The trouble was (they confided) that these French records had been selling well, and the Italian and German records had scarcely been moving at all.

So it was quite natural, they said, that the French records had all vanished from the shelves.

In other words, this item was selling so well that they didn't bother getting a new supply of it.

* * *

If the woman who told me this had not been a truthful person, I would have suspected her of making up the whole thing.

Merchants of any other city except Victoria (it seems to me) would keep an eye on their stock of French records, French postcards or any other item that was selling well, and when the stock was running low, they would order some more—and raise heck with their suppliers until the order was filled.

But in Victoria, they wait until the supply runs out, and then politely inform the customer that he can't have any.

But if the customer would care to order one especially, they add, they might be able to get it in three days to a week.

The same thing applies to seasonal merchandise. I know a woman who went into a number of Victoria stores in May to order children's summer sandals.

"Sorry, we've sold out," she was told.

"When will you be getting some more in?"

"Not until next year" was the astonishing reply.

"We've sold our stock for the summer. We'll be getting the autumn stock in next."

* * *

But maybe I'm wrong when I say that Victoria merchants are the only ones who are asleep. Another woman told me that in Port Alberni—which I always took to be a progressive town—she had tried at the end of May to buy a pair of blue jeans for her young son, only to be told that the season's stock of blue jeans had already been sold, and she would have to wait until next spring.

Groom Wants Her Back

Bride Escaped Gas Chamber

MONTREAL (CP) — A man who thought his wife had perished in a Nazi gas chamber and remarried in 1953 has asked the Quebec Superior Court to annul his second marriage because his first wife has since turned up alive.

The plaintiff, an unidentified 37-year-old Budapest-born machinist, asked for the annulment on the grounds that he was legally married in Hungary in 1942 to his college sweetheart. Soon after he was told she had become another Nazi victim.

SEPARATE CAMPS

The plaintiff says he and his 19-year-old bride were shipped off to separate concentration camps soon after their marriage and never saw each other again. Both were presumed dead by friends in Budapest.

Last April, the machinist says, he received a call from New York. He heard the voice of his first wife for the first time since they were parted in 1943.

PICKED UP CLUES

She too had remarried. But following her flight from Hungary during the 1956 rebellion she picked up and followed clues suggesting he was alive and in Montreal.

Each has a child of the second marriages.

A son born of the former union soon after the husband's arrest was taken away and killed in the Auschwitz camp, the machinest quoted his first wife as telling him.

CIVIL RIGHTS

Adolphe Gardner, counsel for the man, said Quebec law does not deprive his wife or children born of such a second marriage of their civil rights if it is annulled, if there is proof the marriage was contracted in good faith by both parties.

Sect Peace Crusader Bows Out

VANCOUVER (CP)—John Stoochnoff of Penticton, an orthodox Doukhobor who has devoted the last eight years to a personal crusade of promoting better understanding between his people and his fellow Canadians, announced Friday he is abandoning his efforts.

He added a warning: Terrorism in B.C. has reached a tense stage that may lead to "terrible reprisals against all Doukhobors as a whole."

Beacon Hill Park U.S. Boys' 'Camp'

Two young visitors from Washington state this week found their way to an economical Victoria holiday. They spread their sleeping bags in Beacon Hill Park.

At 2.15 a.m. yesterday city police were told there were two bicycles hidden in the brush in Beacon Hill Park, off Douglas and south of Cook street. Two officers went to investigate.

15-YEAR-OLDS

There they found two 15-year-old boys who said they'd come across from Port Angeles July 2 on a brief holiday. They'd found this quiet corner of the park, and there had spent two nights in their sleeping bags.

Both boys had all the proper documents for their visit, and told the policemen they'd had a fine time swimming at the Crystal Garden, visiting the museum, the legislative buildings, Thunderbird Park and other points of interest.

Yesterday the boys' parents were due to come over themselves, and the two would be returning later in the day with them.

Tellings the boys that Beacon Hill Park was not a campsite, and that overnight sleeping was not allowed, the two officers wished the young visitors a pleasant trip, and went their way.

Crane Man Fined

Thomas W. Cox, 3590 Saanich, was fined a minimum of $25 in Oak Bay police court yesterday, following conviction by Magistrate Henry C. Hall on a charge laid under regulations of the Workmen's Compensation Act.

He was accused of operating a crane close to an activated power line.

Charge arose from the death last Jan. 6 of Sigvard Gustafson, 1221 Johnson, on a construction job in Oak Bay.

Mr. Cox was operating a crane used to lift lumber to the second floor of the job. Mr. Gustafson was about to slip a sling over a load of lumber for the crane when the crane touched a 6,900-volt power cable stretching across the lot.

Two other men were slightly injured.

Court was told the crane could not have done its work in any other position.

Changing his plea on the date set for his trial, William H. Smith, 3875 Tillicum, yesterday pleaded guilty in city police court to driving while impaired. Magistrate Hall fined him $250 and remanded him to July 11 for a probation report for decision as to licence suspension.

Court was told accused's car struck a building at Langley and Bastion last May 6, at about 1.50 p.m., resulting in injuries to the driver.

Opinion of police at the accident scene was that the driver was inpaired, and a blood test made when accused reashed hospital disclosed, the magistrate was informed, a blood alcohol content of .33 per cent.

Defence counsel told the court his client at the time had just completed a long and difficult period in his work, bridge constructing. In hospital, accused was found badly run down physically and mentally from overwork, and suffering from malnutrition.

Commons to Air Case

Negroes Barred By London Hotel

LONDON (AP) — The case of three Negro women who were barred from a London hotel on racial grounds has been promised an airing in the House of Commons.

Sir Leslie Plummer, Labor MP, said Friday he also would press for punishment of the hotel management.

The husband of one, in Florida, said she was making a protest to President Eisenhower and British officials.

The women who were turned away after they had booked and paid for rooms are:

Mrs. Edith Alsup, 35, wife of a St. Petersburg, Fla., doctor who has been fighting beach segregation in his home town; her cousin, Miss Elsie Archibald, a New York social worker; Miss Lois Howard, 33, a librarian at Gibbs Junior College in Florida.

They arrived here with reservations for the Goring Hotel, near Buckingham Palace.

Mrs. Alsup said a receptionist called a manager who told her there was a strict hotel rule: "No colored people."

'Mentally Unstable' RAF Vet Admits to A-Bomb Threat

LONDON (AP) — A discharged veteran of the Royal Air Force admitted yesterday he wrote the mysterious letter to the Soviet Embassy threatening to drop an A-bomb off England.

He acknowledged the RAF had dropped him for mental instability.

The letter figured briefly as an international incident giving the Russians a tactical propaganda victory.

He said he wrote it to call attention to his grievances against the RAF. But, he complained, the Russians in making the letter public Wednesday night left out large portions relating to those grievances.

As the Russians put it out, it might have been a letter from a U.S. pilot threatening to use the A-bomb against England.

The Soviet Embassy refused to comment. The suddenness of the new development apparently caught the Russians off balance.

The ex-flier was identified as William Stanley Whales, 34, a farm worker in Ipswich, 68 miles northeast of London.

REV. CORL KOPF
. . . hanged in church

LONDON — Runaway lovers Tessa and Dominic Elwes, who fled across the Atlantic to marry in defiance of an English high court ban, are coming back to face the music.

Dominic, 26 and his 19-year-old heiress bride, the former Tessa Kennedy, are now in America. They ran away to Scotland last November, then flew to Holland and in January finally were married in Cuba. They repeated the ceremony in New York in April.

But Dominic faces a possible jail term if he returns to his native England since he defied the high court on four counts by running away with Tessa.

The couple is currently staying in the Hempstead, Long Island, N.Y., home of Dominic's father, Simon Elwes, a portrait painter for the British royal family.

Exam Date IS Aug. 1

Junior and senior high school students starting summer courses Monday at Oak Bay Junior High School may breath again. Course does conclude, examinations and all, Aug. 1.

Date of final exams at the school was given erroneously yesterday as a week later.

From the school itself yesterday came the word: exams on Aug. 1.

Squamish Highway: Aug. 7

VANCOUVER (CP)—The new $10,000,000 highway connecting Vancouver with Squamish on Howe Sound will be opened Aug. 7 and likely will be almost entirely paved by that date, Highways Minister Gaglardi said yesterday.

Only three of the 30 miles of roadway remain unpaved he said.

Mr. Gaglardi said there will be a big celebration to mark the opening of the road. He estimated originally that it would be opened July 1.

B.C.'s Archbishop Speaks in Abbey

LONDON (CP) — A congregation of about 2,000 persons, including Princess Margaret and leading Commonwealth figures in London, attended a special service of thanksgiving in Westminster Abbey yesterday to commemorate the centenary of British Columbia.

Rarely have the lofty nave and transepts of Westminster Abbey echoed to the ring of so many Canadian voices. The address was given by the Archbishop of B.C., Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton, and the lesson was read by George Drew, Canadian high commissioner to the United Kingdom.

BISHOP'S PROCESSION

The service was preceded by an impressive procession led by the bishops of the five dioceses of B.C.—the Bishop of Cariboo, Rt. Rev. Ralph S. Dean; the Bishop of Kootenay, Rt. Rev. Philip R. Beattie; the Bishop of Caledonia, Rt. Rev. Horace G. Watts; the Bishop of Yukon, Rt. Rev. Tom Greenwood, and the Bishop of New Westminster, Rt. Rev. Godfrey P. Gower.

Princess Margaret, wearing a bright acid-yellow ensemble, brought up the rear of the procession.

RESPONSIBILITIES TO GOD

Archbishop Sexton, taking his text from the 37th verse of the fourth chapter of the Gospel of St. John, said B.C. has much to be thankful for in resources, beautiful countryside and a congenial climate. But her peoples must not be unmindful of their responsibilities to God and to their fellow men.

The service also commemorated the consecration in 1859 of the first bishop of B.C., Rt. Rev. George Hills.

UBC Summer School Sets Canada Record

VANCOUVER (CP) — The largest university summer session in Canada will open at the University of B.C. July 7, with 175 courses offered. A faculty of 75 will instruct more than 4,000 students during the six-week term.

Licensing Small Boats

REVISED federal regulations for the promotion of safety afloat give the RCMP much wider jurisdiction over small boats, and already their authority is being felt by owners. The regulations are reasonable and good as far as they go, but there is some doubt as to whether they go far enough. An enormous number of self-propelled small boats whose use could be dangerous if safety rules were ignored have been left out of the licensing requirement.

The department of transport uses horsepower as the guiding factor in this. The law now is that any boat with a 10 horsepower motor or above, whether inboard or outboard, must be licensed under the Canada Shipping Act. (This is not for revenue purposes, as no fee is exacted; it is purely for purposes of control.) In this business of licensing some starting point has to be fixed. It would be manifestly ridiculous and impracticable to license everything that floats, right down to little dinghies used as tenders—though they, too, are often propelled by outboard motors.

On the other hand 10 horsepower may be too high a rating at which to start licensing. As an indication of the size of boat it is quite meaningless. To begin with there is a very wide difference between 10 hp inboard and 10 hp outboard. Many yachts and slow-speed motorboats capable of carrying a dozen people have less engine power than that. Under these regulations they need not be licensed, whereas a planer-type boat designed for two or three people must be, simply because it has an outboard motor of 10 hp or more, usually much more. Again there is a wide difference between the uses to which an outboard motor is put. A 7½ hp motor may be adequate auxiliary power for a 30-foot auxiliary sailing yacht, whereas a speedboat less than half that size may use 50 to 70 horsepower, in single or twin units.

So it is obvious that horsepower is really no indication of anything, and certainly not of the point at which safety rules should begin to apply. The owner of a 15-foot runabout with a 15 hp outboard motor may be fined up to $100 for not taking out a licence, while the owner of a 5-ton sailboat with a 7½ hp outboard for auxiliary use doesn't have to do anything. It might have been better for the department to have chosen the dimensions of boats rather than their engine power as the controlling factor.

However, that's the way the law stands at the moment, and the thousands of boat owners who haven't yet done their duty would be well advised to heed RCMP warnings that it is going to be enforced.

The Second Half

FOR a number of reasons the first half of 1958 has not been too kind to British Columbia. There remains the second half in which to see what can be done to improve the current trading position both at home and abroad. Business in the province should be able to count on material improvement in housing starts and in some special lines of heavier construction. The tourist season is about to open up the volume, and every possible advantage should be taken of that. Pacific grain shipments westward through the port of Vancouver have been holding up well, and there is reason to believe that this movement will continue.

There are some basic difficulties this year which may have to be accepted by everyone. World market prices for base metals remain unsatisfactory from the standpoint of producers in B.C. Other markets, including sawn lumber and pulp, have improved a little, but with the improvement has come increased competition overseas. Coal, affecting the southeastern section of the province, is in surplus supply all over the world; directly from the lessened use of steel, which is the prime factor in many types of heavy manufacturing. If manufacturing production picks up on normal inventories the stimulus would be felt with benefit over a wide range, including the output of secondary manufactures.

While there is prospect ahead of federal spending on projects of a long-run, permanent nature which could absorb some displaced manpower, it is probably to the public itself that the chief challenge is presented. Governments can affect only a small percentage of the economy on an over-all basis. It is the public which makes the running which counts for most in the end. There is still time to improve British Columbia's trading position this year materially. Self-imposed restrictions arising from a wait-and-see attitude can be eliminated. Industrial peace can take the place of disagreement if mutual moderation is brought to bear on that. Nobody wins when ferry boats are dockbound and shoaling fish are let pass, but much offering trade is turned away.

Though it has started quietly, this can still be a good year for British Columbia if every individual—each in his own way—will work at it. Sustaining every effort is the pronounced factor of population growth, and that is being maintained steadily.

Off to a Fine Start

SHAKESPEARE talked about "little wanton boys that swim on bladders." He never visited a Colonist swimming class, at Saanich, Duncan or Salt Spring Island. No little boys swim there with artificial aids, or little girls either. At best such are misleading assets, and children in water are safer with nature's gifts alone. It is to develop these that the annual classes sponsored by this newspaper are held.

The classes got off to a fine enthusiastic start this week. It does the heart good in fact to see the joy with which youngsters undergo their baptism; for fun and a gay spirit, albeit kept under close supervision and control, are inseparable from the instruction. Besides being initiated into the art of swimming the young pupils enjoy a happy healthful time.

The classes this year are bigger than ever before. Something like 1,500 Greater Victoria children are enrolled in this area, with another 300 at Duncan and more than a 100 at Salt Spring. Mrs. Margie Naysmith, under whose personal direction all the classes are held, has her hands full; but locally she has eight capable assistants on call, and at the Up-Island points other competent instructors are available.

This swimming scheme does not aim to turn out future Olympic champions, of course. Its object is to remove the fear of water from little folk, to teach them the fundamentals and to set them on the road to swimming with reasonable safety on their own. It hopes in this way to relieve parents of anxious moments as their children play at lake and seashore, and to introduce the youngsters to an art that should be familiar to all young people who grow up near shallow and deep waters. The sponsorship of these classes is something that gives this newspaper a sense of quiet satisfaction.

'Summit' Attitude Unchanging

By CLYDE BLACKBURN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

POSSIBILITY of a summit conference seemed as remote this week as at any time since Russia gained some propaganda value out of proposing it six months ago.

Western powers then welcomed the proposal providing the meeting of the leaders was preceded by careful joint planning on agreements that would be the top objective.

Russia has scorned such preliminary planning. Soviet thinking apparently went no farther than the propaganda value to be gained from a meeting of the leaders initiated by Moscow.

It seems all the Russians wanted was get together for a talk-fest. Tuesday's correspondence between Moscow and the Western powers revealed that the West still asks in vain for co-operation in preparing an agenda.

That's where the situation was six months ago. In that period the air has been full of charges and counter charges, the Soviet has been condemned for the executions of Hungarian patriots, has charged the West with war-like actions and intentions, and has held lost United States fliers as hostages.

Only an optimist of the first order could really hope for anything dramatically good to come from a summit conference right now.

Soviet leaders have shown a disinclination to believe anything good of the West since the war ended in 1945. It has been their policy to make the most flagrant charges against the West.

It is true Moscow has received Western visitors, including Canadians, with kindness and courtesy.

They have shown a desire to build up trade relations with Canada and with other Western democracies and there is at the moment a likelihood that trade will be enlarged, including trade with Canada.

But the perpetuation of the Soviet dictatorship depends upon its leaders convincing the masses that they are heading for a Communist paradise threatened only by a warlike and cruel Western democracy.

Soviet leaders are not likely to do anything at the summit or at any level to bring about a situation that would reveal the Westerners to its people as decent, law abiding folks anxious to be friendly and hospitable.

But as always, and Canada goes along with it, the attitude of the Western powers is to stand ready to explore any opening the Communists may give for getting close together on mutual problems.

Justice, Little Rock style

On the Record

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THERE is obviously a discrepancy between the preliminary report of the United Nations secretary-general, Mr. Hammarskjold, and his team of observers in Lebanon, and the charges against the United Arab Republic made by the Lebanese government, headed by President Camille Chamoun. Mr. Hammarskjold believes that a relatively small team of observers can deal with the current situation; the government believes it requires armed assistance, either by a UN force or by the American and British armies.

The government alleges gun-running from Syria and Egypt. The United Arab Republic headed by President Nasser denies it. The Lebanese opposition contend that the government is receiving arms from Turkey, Jordan, and Iraq, whose governments are in the Western camp, although in the case of the two Arab states this alignment has little popular support.

* * *

So what Mr. Hammarskjold and his observers plainly must do is to ascertain the truth or falsehood of these charges and countercharges, and this it should be able to accomplish. For the question in this civil strife is to what extent it has been initiated from without, and if so by whom; to what extent it has been provoked from within and is a home-grown affair, and on what basis if any the rebel leaders are prepared to compromise and make peace.

One thing is, I think, safely predictable, namely that the Russians will not move a finger and that Nasser will not take up arms, unless Syria and Egypt are attacked by American and British forces coming to the aid of the Lebanese government.

It is an open secret or, let us say, is generally believed in the Middle East that in the case of intervention the American air base might be so used. If it were, the Suez crisis would be reopened, and the Russians would in all probability take the stand they did at that time, which was to threaten to come to the aid of Egypt and Syria, were the attack not instantly halted.

* * *

There is some circumstantial evidence that the Russians may be apprehending general war over the Lebanese situation. This is the aggressive stand they are taking toward the "deviationists" in the East European satellite states. The Suez crisis preceded the Hungarian revolt and its ruthless suppression after much hesitancy and a more moderate approach.

There are also inconclusive reports of Soviet troop movements in and around Poland, which may indicate an advance warning to Mr. Gomulka.

For whenever there is apprehension of war, Russia is bound to tighten her grip on East Europe and not leave herself exposed on a vulnerable frontier, about which she has a quite understandable complex in view of Russian history.

* * *

When I talked with Mr. Nehru in India in January, following the Suez crisis in October, this was Nehru's interpretation of Russian ruthlessness—which he deplored — that it was primarily a military measure taken out of fear, in anticipation of a spread of hostilities between West and East. He suggested it speculatively, but there is considerable logic in it.

I should say that there is not the slightest chance of Russia relaxing her hold on East Europe including East Germany as long as the cold war can threaten to erupt anywhere.

But war is always the enemy of independence and freedom.

Reports from Ottawa

IN a couple of weeks Lester B. Pearson will have completed his first six months as national leader of the Liberal Party.

It has probably been the hardest six months of his life, and indications are that his lot will not quickly improve.

In the party morale is recovering only slowly from the psychological aftermath of defeat. In the country the Liberal tide is at ebb and the Tory tide at flood. It is now no longer a question of devising a popular Grit platform, a series of promises to attract voters. Under the former Liberal leadership the party pretty well exhausted its supply of liberalism, and the basic task facing Pearson is to develop a new liberal philosophy for the Liberal Party.

There is evidence of some progress—for example, the objective looks taken at Liberalism during the Ontario Liberal conference last week, and the discussion of such ideas as nationalization of the gas pipeline, which would have been anathema to the former Liberal leadership in Ottawa. While there is an assumption that Pearson will lead the party further to the left than it has been in recent years, no clear outline of his neo-Liberalism is likely to be visible for some time.

* * *

There is uncertainty as to what the new creed of the party should be. There is also a moderating factor in the inertia of the stand-patters — politicians who haven't caught Pearson's vision of neo-Liberalism. And there is a lack of rapport between the stand-patters and the new-dealers of the party who believe that a fresh approach is essential to maintain the party as a potent political force.

This was strikingly illustrated when it was reported erroneously, it seems — that the former transport minister, George Marler, was being backed by the stand-patters for the presidency of the National Liberal Federation. Strong opposition to Marler developed among Liberal MPs.

Marler is available for party work. He's financially independent, politically experienced, and has been spending much time in the Commons galleries and in conferences with his former colleagues. But his brand of Liberalism is spelled only with a big L, and those who took alarm at the report that he was being drafted to replace the sick and retiring Liberal president, Duncan MacTavish, hold that Marler is not the man to sell Pearson Liberalism to the nation.

* * *

Pearson labors under some special disabilities in the Commons. It is difficult for him to criticize the Conservative government when so many of the actions the Tories take—as on NORAD, for example — have their roots in the Liberal era.

Pearson has few first-rate brains on his side. His ablest lieutenant, Paul Martin, is reluctant to do more than his assigned duties lest he appear to be crowding the man to whom he lost the party leadership. Outside the House, Pearson has brain trusters Maurice Lamontagne and Allan MacEachen, both former professors, but lack of money cramps him in trying to create a strong secretariat.

Even on a seven-days-a-week schedule nearly all Pearson's time is occupied by parliamentary rather than party affairs. His colleagues say it's hard to get decisions from him on party matters. Not until Parliament winds up will he have time for the twin problems of political reorganization and philosophical reorientation that a long pull will require.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

FISHING and hunting being a sport, a great many of us play the game the way many hockey players, boxers, football players and participants in other sporting activities play their games. And that is, if you can beat the rules, okay. I imagine there are mighty few hockey players who can say they never cross-checked, gave the butt end or otherwise broke the rules. How many of them could give a fair estimate of the number of times they were caught by the referee in comparison with the number of times they got away with it?

One of our foresters, in a recent bulletin, described the plight of two highly respected businessmen who were caught in flagrant violation of the game laws, with six times their limit of fish.

"These men," he writes, "are probably thought of as good citizens, honest in all business matters, who would be horrified if their integrity were questioned in business, personal or domestic matters. Yet their fishing tactics are on a par with putting their hands into their employer's till."

The trouble may be in terminology. Maybe we should no longer refer to the "game" laws. We should entitle them the maintenance laws, the preservation laws, or better still, "Your Grandson's Laws."

Make a man feel he is robbing his grandson, and he might stick to the rules.

"Valuable Scottish Asset"

(From The Montreal Gazette)

ONE might imagine that if a monster happened to be loose, everyone would wish to see it captured. The Scottish Tourist Board is taking action to protect the monster which is said to make his home in Loch Ness. The monster is described as "this valuable Scottish asset."

The trouble has arisen from a proposition, made south of the border, that the monster might be tracked down and captured with a "crocodile trap." However valuable such an expedition might be to sport or science, the Scottish Tourist Board will have none of it.

It is estimated that thousands of tourists come every year to Loch Ness. And the Tourist Board remarks that even if they fail to see the monster, they "at least see some beautiful scenery."

Of course, the Scottish Tourist Board is right. It would never do to have Englishmen loose with crocodile traps in Scotland, looking for a valuable Scottish asset.

Letter from London

Heritage Survives

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

W. S. GILBERT said many years ago "Bishops in their shovel hats, as plentiful as tabby cats, in point of fact too many." There are fewer shovel hats these days and the prospect of at least one bishop too many has been averted. Archbishop Makarios will not be coming to the Lambeth Conference and my tip is that no one will be more pleased than the Archbishop of Canterbury who invited him and caused a major crisis when the Greek-Cypriot rebel "provisionally accepted."

No doubt it will be many years before we know whether the Greek archbishop (who is a British subject) was intended to accept. The fact that he has finally refused has definitely helped his prestige in this country. Had he come there would have been inevitable incidents, and as the Home Office said that the archbishop is British, and it would need a special act of parliament to exclude him, there was no chance of his being made a martyr by being turned away illegally, or his ego being inflated still further by special legislation.

So all is reasonably quiet for the 300 bishops who have assembled for the Lambeth conference, apart from a little domestic ecclesiastical trouble which has resulted in reports and denials of the imminent retirement of Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, who is now 71 and will be presiding over his second conference.

* * *

There is nothing official about the talks. It has been described "as a large family gathering"—a sort of Christian commonwealth of churches which have their roots or affiliations in the Anglican mother church of Canterbury.

As one Roman Catholic historian declared in a moment of naughty but factual candor, "the Anglican communion is a remarkable achievement for a schismatic heresy, for a church founded on a divorce." It may be argued that the Anglican Church would have been created in spite of Henry the Eighth. In fact it was created because of him and he got the divorce which the Pope had refused.

Of course it is awfully unkind to bring the skeleton out of the cupboard. It is also unnecessary. After all, the foundation of the Anglican Church saved the life of Katherine of Aragon and Anne of Cleves. They could have been beheaded like Anne Boleyn and Katherine Howard. But these little complexities come up on occasions, and add something to gaiety of history. The Anglican community may have had a tenuous beginning, but no one can deny its remarkable growth.

The Lambeth conference is a remarkable manifestation of a common religious heritage because it represents a faith which has survived national upheavals; it represents the self-governing churches of the dominions and also the Episcopalean Church in the United States which sprang from the common root, and other churches in many parts of the world. Like the Commonwealth the Anglican Church has grown up all over the world by a process of growth from "colonial status" to independence with complete self-government. And from the Anglicans have come the other non-conformist ecclesiastical relatives which broke away from the Anglicans.

* * *

Every 10 years the family, represented by its bishops from all over the world, gets together at the invitation of the Archbishop of Canterbury. They confer informally, but to a pre-arranged agenda, behind closed doors. They reach certain conclusions which will form the basis of a Lambeth report. There is nothing binding about the report. No one has to do anything about it. Some do and some do not. The point is that they have met in a spirit of Christian fellowship and tolerance, they have discussed problems and reached conclusions not by direct voting but by the "spirit of the meeting." It creates currents of thought; some grow wider and others dry up.

Even today the concern and effort being made towards Christian reunion, the creation of the world council of churches, the closer co-operation of clergy of all denominations have grown to no small effect from the gentle current of thought released by the Lambeth Conference of 1920. It has grown and grown. It may yet flood over to wash away the artificial barriers which divide so many churches and create intolerance instead of goodwill. This year the conference will discuss amongst other things the Church in South India—a union of all the non-Roman Catholic Christian churches—and how it has worked. That great experiment in Christian charity undoubtedly started 38 years ago at Lambeth Palace.

The Lambeth Conference has another great virtue. The bishops from all over the world get around a great deal. They talk and preach and make the world seem smaller to many people in these islands who have strayed far from their home parish. It provides healthy infusion of new ideas into a land which sometimes thinks too much of yesterday and not enough of tomorrow.

Letters to the Editor

Too Many Cooks

Practically all the candidates for the vacant seats on the Saanich municipal council are men who are earning their living in various walks of life and can only give their spare time to municipal problems. Saanich does not pay its council enough to enable its members to devote their whole time to municipal affairs.

If a check is made of those who have functioned as members of the council over the past few years, we find that many of them are eliminated before they have served long enough to become familiar with the problems which come before them. Some leave voluntarily, but most are dropped through the chances of the electoral process.

If our increasingly complex society is to function efficiently we must find competent, educated men of integrity who will make it their life work to carry out the daily tasks of government as permanent paid officials. This system is at present in force in many of the largest cities in North America. In the provincial and federal field it has long been apparent that most incoming governments would be hopelessly lost when taking over office without the permanent civil servants.

Saanich urgently requires a senior permanent official who will function along the lines laid down for city managers. The elected council must be in full command as the body which lays down policy but must be relieved of the daily tasks of government. At present "too many cooks spoil the broth."

CARL FALLAS.

More Ballyhoo

The exhibit of cement works being shown in the Eaton Gallery and called painting needs some explanation. Is the show trying to depict the world "without form and void," or is it just an advertisement for some wealthy cement company?

To tell the viewing public that they must be educated to the new school is not enough. No one wants to rob another of their freedom of expression, but this works both ways. The public should have some freedom to denounce ballyhoo when it is given the privileges denied so often to legitimate art. Too bad the artist does not show some samples of his understandable creations.

Gobbledygook Art

E. J. Pratt, one of our leading poets, on a CBC broadcast a few nights ago deplored the lack of clarity in our present-day literature. Will we ever get back the culture of our fathers? Is Spengler right when he said that Western culture was definitely on the way out?

In Victoria we have two bright spots at least. In a trip through St. Ann's Academy with the historical association recently, the writer noticed that, among some excellent examples of painting by the students and teachers there was not a sign of "gobbledegook" art. And Fenwick Lansdowne's wild birds will live and charm the world long after modern art has gone to rest.

Youths Lucky To Live

Two young men miraculously escaped death early yesterday when the car in which they were riding on the Trans-Canada Highway went out of control near Wilkinson Road for 431 feet, then rolled over a 35-foot embankment to crash on rocks below.

Oswald Kockott, 18, of Brentwood, and Arthur Henry Turner, 22, of 4910 West Saanich Road, were picked up by a passing driver who found them wandering on the highway, and taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Neither man was seriously hurt, but both suffered shock. Turner was treated for facial injuries, and Kockott for an injured shoulder. Police yesterday had not determined who was driving the car, northbound at the time of the crash.

A Hero at Four

Hero in the eyes of his sister and parents is little Billy O'Brien, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice O'Brien, Preston, Ont., who dragged his three-year-old sister, Frances (left), to safety from the O'Brien's burning family car seconds before it became an inferno. Frances had remained in the car while Billy and his dad visited a neighbor.—(CP.)

Third Minister Quits Ontario Government

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost said Friday he has accepted the resignation of a third Progressive Conservative cabinet minister because of an association with Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company Limited.

At the same time Attorney-General Roberts said charges will be laid against the company, and its president, Ralph K. Farris of Vancouver.

Lands and Forests Minister Clare Mapledoram became the third minister to resign because of shareholdings in the company. Col. William Griesinger resigned May 6 as public works minister and ex-mines minister Philip T. Kelly resigned last summer.

Ontario CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald, who brought the matter to the floor of the legislature and demanded a royal commission, said Mr. Roberts' report, "is a devastating blow to the integrity of public administration in Ontario."

The cabinet ministers "were using their inside positions to make private gain out of a company whose financial fortunes were shaped by government policy," he said.

Trade Build-Up Goal

Churchill May Go To China for Pact

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Churchill may visit Peiping next fall in an attempt to work out a trade agreement with Communist China, it was learned yesterday.

Mr. Churchill is known to be pressing hard to build up trade with the Chinese mainland which this year has been buying large amounts of Canadian wheat.

His next step in building up trade, it was understood, will be to attempt to get the United States to lift restrictions on subsidiaries in Canada doing business with the Chinese Reds.

Discussions on this ticklish issue have been carried on among Canadian and American officials. It may be raised with President Eisenhower when he arrives for three-day talks on July 8.

Under current American policy Americans are not allowed to do business with the Chinese Reds. This restriction extends to subsidiaries of American companies operating in Canada and other points outside of the U.S.

Once this point is cleared up, Mr. Churchill may fly to Peiping, perhaps immediately after the Commonwealth economic and trade conference in September, to try to work out some kind of agreement with the Chinese.

What he may have in mind is the kind of agreement Canada worked out with Russia. Russia agreed to purchase a certain fixed amount of Canadian wheat over a three-year period in return for a reduction in Canadian tariffs on Russian goods.

High Hopes for Federal-B.C. Pact

If Plan Means Money Hospitals Are for It

New federal-provincial hospital insurance agreement is welcomed by the B.C. Hospitals' Association.

An announcement bearing the names of president L. F. C. Kirby and executive secretary Kenneth Combear said the association hoped federal participation would relieve the financial difficulties "now pressing heavily on many hospitals in this province."

Under the new hospital insurance plan, which went into effect July 1, the federal government pays 45 per cent of the costs which are now met by the province.

Spokesmen for the hospital association, which represents the majority of public and private hospitals in B.C., said a solution to their financial difficulties was urgent, "despite the help received from the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service since 1949."

"More than one hospital in this province has seen its resources steadily dwindling in the last few years," the BCHA statement said. "Many now have large bank overdrafts where not too long ago they had comfortable reserves . . ."

"Were they ordinary commercial enterprises many of them might now well be in the hands of the receivers," it added.

UNDER STUDY

The association statement said it was studying the question of why some hospitals succeed financially and others continue to go in the red. "But in a province with as varied a climate, topography and population as B.C." the answer was difficult.

Although poor business management might be the answer to deficit operation "in a few cases," the hospital association spokesmen said, "we think the provincial government is not providing enough money to keep all our hospitals . . . in fit condition to give the services demanded of them.

"We don't care where the money is coming from as long as it is enough," they added.

Waltzes, 'Fair Lady' To Mingle With Blooms

Popular arias, overtures and symphonies, Strauss waltzes and the music from "My Fair Lady" will be heard in the Victoria Symphony Orchestra concerts presented by the Butchart Gardens July 10 and 17.

Selection of music was announced yesterday by conductor Hans Gruber, who also disclosed that former Victoria violinist Carol McCartney will return from Toronto to act as concertmistress.

Music from the outdoor stage July 10 will include the overture to Verdi's "La Forza del Destino," Mendelssohn's fourth symphony, music from "My Fair Lady," the Strauss waltz "Roses from the South," Mrs. McCartney playing Beethoven's "Romance" for violin and orchestra, and guest soloist Charles Davis singing music by Flotow, Verdi and other composers.

Program July 17 includes Bizet's "Carmen" overture and "L'Arlesienne" suite, the Strauss waltz "Blue Danube," prelude to act one of Verdi's "La Traviata," Beethoven's symphony, and guest soloist Grace Bumbry singing arias by Saint-Saens, Verdi and Tschaikowsky.

Mr. Davis, a tenor from Hawaii, and Miss Bumbry, an American mezzo-soprano, were among 1958 winners of the Metropolitan Opera auditions of the air. Their songs include "La Donna e Mobile" by Verdi and "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" by Saint-Saens.

Garden Notes

Beauty By Any Name

By M. Y. CHESNUT, FRHS

A month or so ago, I wrote a piece about the Plantain Lily, and poked a little fun at our learned friends, the botanists, for their inability to decide whether the correct name for this plant is Hosta or Funkia. It has just occurred to me that much the same situation exists with the honeysuckle Diervilla.

Weigel was a Swedish physician and botanist; Dierville a French surgeon stationed with the military forces in Canada around the year 1700, and who collected and shipped to Europe several specimens of this flowering shrub. But regardless of which of these medical gentlemen was responsible for its introduction, the shrub itself is a honey.

Most of our flowering shrubs do their stuff over a very short period of the year—I am still feeling a bit miffed over the painfully short flowering of my double white lilac this year. But the Weigela (or Diervilla) keeps on pushing out its lovely Foxglove-like blooms over a good three months, from May right through until late in July. If it has any fault at all, it is that it lacks the sweet fragrance of its close relatives, the true honeysuckles.

Barring its lack of perfume, the shrub has just about all the virtues we look for in a good garden subject. It is completely hardy, it never becomes too large for even a tiny garden, and it doesn't care much where you plant it.

The Diervilla's needs are modest, and although it has some preferences for a soil rich in leafmould and plenty of moisture, it isn't really very fussy and will get along complacently in any garden soil, and on the north, south, east or west side of the house. While it loves the sun, it will grow quite happily in partial shade, blooming a little later but extending the blossoming period over an even longer period of time than those in a sunny location.

The blossoms come in loose clusters of Foxglove-like flowers, borne along graceful, arching branches formed the previous season. This gives a clue as to the proper pruning; to encourage a steady annual dividend of bloom, the flower-bearing branches should be cut back hard immediately after flowering, to encourage the production of strong fresh growth for carrying the blooms next year.

As a member of the honeysuckle family, the Diervilla has the family love of leafmold, and it is a good idea to follow up the annual pruning with a thick top-dressing or mulch of partially rotted leaves from the leaf pile raked up last fall.

Quite a good color range is available in the flowers, mostly in shades of pink and red. White and cream-colored varieties are available, but are somewhat scarce and difficult to come by, and there is one yellow-flowered species from Japan.

Bristol Ruby is an attractive variety, making about six feet in height, and with deep red flowers. Eva Rathke is a clear crimson, and a bit more dwarf, about four feet high. This one continues to bloom even after the other Diervillas have finished, and is still radiant with color in September.

A most interesting variety is Diervilla follis-purpureis, with purple foliage and bright pink blossoms. Middendorfiana has sulphur-yellow blooms, but hasn't quite the hardiness of its cousins, and should be given a sheltered, sunny position.

Mikoyan Votes at U.S. Pavilion

Kim Novak, Frisco and FDR

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Deputy Soviet Premier Anastas Mikoyan toured the U.S. pavilion at the world's fair yesterday and said that if he were an American he would have "shown more."

"More what?" he was asked at an impromptu press conference.

"Oh, no you don't," he grinned. "I've been at this game too long. You'll accuse me of interference in American affairs."

Mikoyan missed nothing in the American pavilion.

"That's a picture called 'Love at Noon'," an American guide explained to the Soviet leader.

He stepped back from the very abstract pattern in black and white, wrinkled his brow, nudged Madame Katerina Furtseva, member of the Soviet Presidium, and said:

"Love at noon, eh? What do they do at night?"

As he darted about the pavilion, Mikoyan noticed the American voting machine display installed to dramatize the secret ballot in the United States. He said he wanted to vote.

"Well, what did you vote for?" he was asked after he left the booth which has such dummy questions as "who is your favorite film star" and "what city is your favorite" and so on.

"Why, it's a secret ballot," exclaimed Mikoyan. "You wouldn't want me to disclose it."

But everyone was so curious when Mikoyan got into the voting booth that prying eyes discovered that his favorite musician is Louis Armstrong. He also voted Kim Novak as his favorite film star, Franklin D. Roosevelt as his favorite American statesman, San Francisco as his favorite American city (he was in the United States in 1936, he said) and Ernest Hemingway as his favorite American author.

An American hostess said that when Mikoyan saw the American luncheonette at the pavilion he said:

"We must have this in Russia. We, too, like the Americans, are people in a hurry."

The modern art left Mikoyan puzzled.

"The paint is undoubtedly of very fine quality and the canvas looks like good stuff," he said.

The deputy premier then watched a remote-control claw picking up materials.

"We have the same thing," he said. "Anything an American hand can do, a Russian hand can do. The important thing is that neither hand throws a bomb."

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
3 N.T.	Pass	4 N.T.	Pass
6 N.T.	All Pass

Opening lead: ♢ J

According to the Goren point count, the opening bid of three no-trump can include as many as 27 points; as a practical matter, however, most players open with a forcing two-bid when their count is 26 or more. So North might have passed his partner's opening bid, but his partner happened to be Sol Mogal and North had supreme confidence in his ability to wring the most from the cards.

The contract looked hopeless, but with a moderate assist from East, Mogal brought home the slam. He won the diamond in his hand and led the queen of spades. Here East made an error. If he had ducked, even though it left his king subject to capture, dummy would have had one entry too few and the contract would have been set.

However, East took his king and returned a club. South won, cashed the spade ace and led the ten, overtaking with dummy's jack. The favorable break in spades breathed extra life into the faint hope with which declarer's play had begun. On the last spade, South discarded a club. Then he led dummy's ten of hearts. East covered and South won the trick, cashed his remaining high club and returned to dummy with a diamond.

Dummy's remaining high diamond was cashed and East's hand was wrecked. If he discarded a club, South's eight-spot would be high; when he discarded a heart, South threw his club, took a successful finesse against the queen of hearts, and won the last two tricks with the king and three-spot in the heart suit. After which, of course, it would have been ungrateful as well as useless to criticize North's overoptimistic bidding.

'Everyone Does 75 In Oregon'

WATERTON, S.D. (AP) — She drives on the wrong side of the highway because her car runs better there.

That's what Mrs. Alice Orary Brown, 70, of Salem, Ore., told Judge A. R. Hendrikson when she was brought in on a charge of reckless driving.

The complaint said she drove 75 to 90 miles an hour along the highway, much of the time either astraddle or on the left side of the centre line.

"Everyone drives at least 75 in Oregon," she remarked when the speeding phase of the complaint was mentioned.

She was fined $100 and costs, $25 of the fine was suspended.

Number of tractors on farms in South Africa now is estimated at more than 100,000.

Consolidate Schools Sparse Areas Told

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said yesterday he had sent out a directive recommending that school boards build combined junior-senior high schools in thinly-populated areas of B.C.

In addition boards have been asked to build two-room elementaries where necessary rather than adding to existing schools if such action would do away with school buses.

The department has warned that unless the policy is followed the government will not share in transportation costs such as school buses.

Guards Toast Lost Temper

Unsilent Sentry Hailed

TPR. JOHN TEDBURY
. . . polishing for hour

LONDON (AP) — Trooper John Tedbury—the sentry in shining armor who smashed tradition by speaking on duty—was honored by the men of the Queen's Household Guards today.

They drank to his health for daring to talk back.

"We are convinced there were extenuating circumstances," announced Lt.-Col. the Marquess Douro, direct descendant of the Duke of Wellington. He is Tedbury's commanding officer.

The indiscretion of 21-year-old Trooper Tedbury lay in the fact that he lost his temper and said "You are a liar," at a professional London guide, Capt. John T. Reeves, 63, a veteran of two world wars.

The guide was conducting a party of 34 American tourists around the showplaces of London.

Telling his side of the story, the sentry said:

"The guide said my boots were made of patent leather. Of course, they're made of the finest leather.

"He said my trousers were plastic. They're the finest buckskin you can buy.

"He then said we didn't even have to clean our own gear. That's what really got me, for I'd just been polishing my breastplate for over an hour."

When the commanding officer heard the trooper's explanation he dismissed the charges against him.

Braves Go Under Twice To Tighten Tense Chase

Milwaukee's suddenly-punchless Braves were sent crashing to a double defeat yesterday as the National League race became virtually an eight-team affair with only seven games separating the last-place Los Angeles Dodgers from the defending champions and six teams bunched within four and a half games.

* * *

Philadelphia's revived Phillies, getting excellent pitching from Curt Simmons, Dick Farrell and Jack Sanford, twice turned the Braves, 5-1 and 4-0. The double setback left Milwaukee only a game and a half ahead of the idle St. Louis Cardinals and moved the Phils within three and a half games of the lead.

The Braves have scored only two runs in their last four games and three in their last 47 innings as the rest of the field closed in.

RUBBING IT IN

Ex-Brave Carl Sawatski made things even more bitter as he led the Phils in the first game with a home run, double and two singles which drove in three runs. Simmons ran into a bit of trouble in the eighth and Farrell took over in his usual efficient manner to stifle the Braves.

Sanford eased to a shutout win, allowing only five hits, in the second game. The Phils got an added boost when Ed Bouchee came through with five hits in seven trips during the holiday twin bill.

Cincinnati Redlegs picked up two games to remain in a fourth-place tie with the Phils, sweeping the slumping Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3 and 8-3. Alex Kellner took over from the faltering Don Newcombe in the first game to score his first National League win after 10 years of American League service. Bob Purkey, traded away by the Pirates after least season, scored his ninth win in the second game.

San Francisco's second-place Giants and the sixth-place Chicago Cubs, picked up a game by splitting their doubleheader. The Giants won the first game, 6-5, with a five-run ninth inning capped by Willie Mays' two-out single which plated the tying and winning runs.

Dave Hillman topped the Giants on five hits to win the second game, 6-1.

The Cards and Dodgers, not scheduled, both gained a full game, two on the important losing side.

New York Yankees passed the July 4 milestone with a 10½ game lead in the American League after sweeping a pair from Washington Senators, 2-1 and 13-2.

Bob Turley won the first game, his 12th win in 15 decisions, when Tony Kubek singled in Yogi Berra with the winning run. Turley tied the score in the third with a home run.

In the second game, Art Ditmar held the Senators to four hits and matched the total with four singles of his own. Rookie Norm Siebern, in a hot streak, had five hits, including a home run, in five trips. Mickey Mantle, who now has 19, and Bill Showron, also homered for the Yanks.

Kansas City Athletics also won twice, beating Chicago White Sox, 6-3 and 4-3.

Bob Cerv, on the bench with a broken toe, hobbled up as a pinch-hitter in the first game and connected for his 22nd homer, driving in the tying and winning runs as the Athletics won after trailing by 5-0.

Mainland Club Will Test Junior Rocks

Victoria Junior Shamrocks will host New Westminster's unbeaten Junior Salmonbellies Sunday in exhibition lacrosse action at Stevenson Park.

The Junior Rocks have been beaten only once in Senior "B" Lacrosse League play this season and are expected to give the classy New Westminster squad its sternest test of the season.

Game time is 2 p.m.

Happy Brazilians

Jubilant members of Brazil's soccer team run around stadium in Stockholm with a giant flag after they won World Cup with 5-2 win over Sweden in final. Brazilian XI was hailed as greatest ever assembled after impressive march to championship.

New Boat-Owner

Jack Brice, left, president of Victoria and District Amateur Baseball Association, congratulates Art Kitely of Langford on winning new boat, complete with outboard motor, insurance and trailer and licence, which was main prize in association's fund-raising drive. Wally Thomson, president of Senior Amateur Baseball League looks on. Drive netted $900 which will be used to promote amateur baseball at all levels in city.

Duncan Club Moves Into Second Place

Duncan's Mayo Lumber, continuing to improve each time out, moved into second place in the Senior "A" Men's Softball League last night, defeating Arrow Furniture, 9-4, at Central Park.

Brian McKinley turned in an eight-hit pitching chore to pick up the win. He aided his own cause with a bases-empty home run in Mayo's six-run fifth inning.

Duncan's 13-hit attack was paced by Frank Branting, who connected for a three-run homer, two doubles and a single in five trips. He drove in five runs.

Norm Curran had three singles in four trips for the losers while veteran Bud Ross, making his first appearance of the season, had a single and a double in four tries.

NAVY WINS

In last night's Senior "B" League action at Heywood Avenue Park, Don Bota hurled a three-hitter as Navy whipped Mary's Coffee Bar, 7-1.

Bota walked only four and chalked up five strikeouts.

George Spicer, with a triple and a single in three trips, and Ray Jones, with a two-run homer, were the big guns for Navy.

For Mary's Coffee Bar, Chuck Gummer collected two of their three hits, banging out a single and triple in three tries.

Vancouver Mounties, racked by five home runs in each game as they lost the first two games of the crucial Coast Baseball League series, 11-5 and 13-3, stopped the Phoenix sluggers yesterday, but not for long.

After winning the first game of a doubleheader, 7-3, southpaw Art Ceccarelli held the Giants to six hits, none of them homers, the Mounties staggered off the field with a 10-1 loss in the second game as Phoenix sluggers teed off for eight four-base smashes.

Andre Rodgers and Willie McCovey each hit two out of the park while Dusty Rhodes, Jack Dittmer, Don Taussig and Tom Haller each hit one.

The split left the Giants a game and a half in front of the Mounties and San Diego Padres, who split with Salt Lake City.

Colwood Winner

Mrs. Cliff Denham shot a 94, which her handicap of 18 reduced to a net 76, to win the silver division in medal play at Royal Colwood Golf and Country Club Thursday.

Top honors in the bronze division went to Mrs. Vera Clunk, who shot a 97-19-78.

All-British Final At Henley Regatta

HENLEY, Henley-on-Thames, Eng. (Reuters)—Underdog British crews upset powerful United States and Russian oarsmen Friday as the Henley regatta saw some of the most exciting rowing in years.

Both races were in the semi-finals of the Stewards' Cup for coxless fours.

The University of Washington for Seattle was beaten by half a length by Barn Cottage Boat Club, a small group formed recently by some of Britain's leading oarsmen. The Trud club of Leningrad lost by one-third of a length to a National Provincial Bank team.

Earlier in the week, Trud beat Washington in the Grand Challenge Cup for eights.

The most exciting race today will be between two men—Stuart Mackenzie of Australia and Vyacheslav Ivanov of Russia, currently the world's greatest scullers. They will meet in the finals of the Diamond Sculls.

MacKenzie holds the title. Ivanov is the Olympic champion.

Ivanov has beaten MacKenzie twice—in the heats and finals of the 1956 Olympic Games in Melbourne. And twice MacKenzie has crushed Ivanov in the Henley final last year and later in the 1957 European Games championship.

The edge might be with Ivanov because the 22-year-old MacKenzie has a slightly strained back which has troubled him for several days.

Skin-Divers Set for Meet

About 70 divers are expected to compete in the Victoria Skin-Diving Club's first annual international diving competition at the breakwater off Dallas Road Sunday.

Divers from Seattle, Vancouver, Port Townsend, Nanaimo and Victoria will register at 11 a.m. The competition will get under way at 12 noon and is expected to wind up about 3 p.m.

Singles Champions on Hand For City Hard-Courts Meet

Susan Butt, second ranked women's singles player in Canada, and former Polish junior champion Alex Stencel will defend their singles titles in the Victoria City Open Hard Courts tennis championships which get under way today.

Opening matches are scheduled for 12.30 p.m. at B.C. Electric, Central Park, Stadacona, Carnarvon and Victoria Lawn courts and the finals will be played Sunday at the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club.

In women's singles, Miss Butt is expected to get strong opposition from Sharon Whittaker, fifth ranked in B.C. and winner of this year's Upper Island championship at Courtenay. Miss Whittaker also won the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club title this year without losing a set.

Other top-flight players in the women's singles competition are Camosun Club champion Elsie Cooley and Victoria Club juniors Joan Woolison, Diana Lawrence and Wendy Cox.

Victoria Club champion Ted Smythe and Bob Peskett, former Port Alberni titlist, are rated the biggest threats to Stefoll's hopes of retaining his crown.

Cricket Fans Applaud . . . . . Captain's Bold Policy

Aggressive Play Boosts Hampshire XI

By KEN METHERAL

LONDON (CP) — A refreshing breeze from Hampshire is sweeping across the cricket fields of England.

It is blowing away some of the stodginess resulting from the over-emphasis on defence in post-war cricket. And it is giving a surprising buffeting to the county championship pennant that for six years had proudly flown from Surrey's flagpole at the Oval.

Mainly responsible for this invigorating state of affairs is Colin Ingleby-Mackenzie, the 24-year-old amateur who took over as captain of the Hampshire side at the start of the season.

When he succeeded Desmond Eager as captain, Ingleby-Mackenzie announced: "I'm planning an attacking approach to the game, a switch to aggression."

It was a courageous move. Eager, who in 1955 had led Hampshire to a third-place finish — the highest ever achieved by the county — was a leading exponent of defensive play. His formula was to concentrate in the field on holding his opponents to a low scoring pace so they would be irked to recklessness. Now Ingleby-Mackenzie has ordered his bowlers to go after the wickets, and allows his batsmen to hit out freely in an attempt to pile up runs in a hurry.

The bolder policy has succeeded. Hampshire, 13th in the 17-team county league last season, now is contesting the top position with Surrey. More important from the fans' point of view, Hampshire has become one of the most attractive teams to watch.

Ingleby-Mackenzie has had a big assist from his fast bowlers, headed by 34-year-old Derek Shackleton, whose accurate right-arm deliveries have captured more than 60 wickets for Hampshire at an average cost of a fraction more than 15 runs per wicket.

His most consistent batsman is opener Roy Marshall, a West Indian who has a creditable average of 47 runs an innings, and who was one of the first three men to top the 1,000-mark this season.

The team captain has not been doing badly himself. He banged out a century against Kent at a run-a-minute clip to send Hampshire racing towards the top of the standings. His feat of running up a century against Somerset in 61 minutes rates fastest of the season to date.

In doing so well for Hampshire, he is emerging as one of the outstanding cricket personalities of the year.

Speaking Briefly

Cooper Wimbledon Winner; Althea Could Score Triple

Ashley Cooper, dark-haired 21-year-old Australian, yesterday upheld the selectors' seeding by winning the the men's singles championship in the 72nd annual Wimbledon tennis tournament.

The top-seeded Cooper took honors with a 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 13-11 win over fourth-seeded Neale Fraser in the all-Australian final. It was the third year in a row that an Australian had won. Lew Hoad, now a pro, won in 1956 and 1957.

More than 15,000 spectators, including Princess Margaret, jammed the centre court to watch the final. Most were pulling hard for Cooper but all had to agree that Cooper's victory was merited.

THREE FINALS

Meanwhile Althea Gibson who last year became the first colored player to win at Wimbledon, seemed headed for a tennis "triple." Already in the ladies' single final, she gained the final in both the ladies and mixed doubles yesterday.

Paired with Maria Bueno of Brazil, the hard-hitting American star reached the ladies' doubles by playing a big part in the 6-3, 6-2 win over Mrs. Mary Hawton and Mrs. Thelma Long of Australia. Miss Gibson and Miss Bueno meet Margaret Dupont and Margaret Varner in the all-American final today.

Miss Gibson paired with Kurt Neilsen of Denmark to best Shirley Bloomer and Billy Knight of England in the mixed doubles semi-finals. The other finalists are Francisco Contreras and Rosa Maria Reyes of Mexico.

It will be Cooper and Fraser against the Swedish team of Sven Davidson and Ulf Schmidt in the men's doubles final. Cooper and Fraser beat Barry Mackay and Mervyn Rose, 3-6, 8-6, 7-5, 7-5, while the Swedish pair ousted Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola of Italy.

ART WALL took the lead in the $22,000 Rubber City open yesterday by shooting a 67 for a 36-hole total of 132. Right behind Wall were Al Balding, one of Canada's best golfers; Frank Phillips, Australian open champion, Tommy Bolt and Jackie Nicklaus, an 18-year-old amateur. All had 133s with Balding matching Wall's 67 yesterday . . . Rain postponed play yesterday in the Canada-Cuba Davis Cup match. The doubles will be played today, weather permitting. Canada leads, 2-0, after having won the first two singles matches on Thursday.

SID FINNEY, veteran centre who was drafted by the Hershey Bears, will remain with Calgary Stampeders of the Western Hockey League . . . Bold Ruler scored a narrow victory over Clem yesterday in the $83,400 Suburban Handicap at Belmont Park despite an impost of 134 pounds . . . Eddie Sims, voted the outstanding backfielder in the Ontario Rugby Football Union last season, has been signed by Calgary Stampeders. The Stamps also signed Harry Langford and Ron Albright, two holdover Canadian guards . . . mutuel handle at the 21-day meeting at Winnipeg's new Assiniboia Downs race track totalled $3,657,628, an average of $174,173 daily . . . veteran defenceman Hugh Coflin has been signed for next season by Edmonton Flyers and will again act as captain of the Western Hockey League club . . . Vancouver Lions have lost the services of Dick Foster, an import tackle from University of Idaho who was a standout last season. Foster has received his draft call and reports immediately for induction in the U.S. army. The Lions, however, have signed Don Bingham, a halfback who played with Chicago Bears in 1956. Bingham sat out the option clause in his contract last season because he couldn't come to terms with the National Football League club.

Cougars Get Forward Line In Exchange for Dorohoy

Victoria Cougars, who were facing a new hockey season without much quantity in the way of talent, did something about it yesterday by sending Ed Dorohoy to Calgary Stampeders in a trade which brought the Island club a new forward line and the right to pick a rookie defenceman from the Calgary training camp.

Coming to the Cougars in addition to the unknown rookie are Enio Sclisizzi, a veteran centre who turned pro in 1946 and who will be 33 on Aug. 1; left-winger Murray Wilkie, a 26-year-old who has had three professional seasons, and George Ford, a rightwinger of 28 years who had his best season last season when he scored 25 goals and assisted on 19 others while dividing his time between Winnipeg and Calgary.

Ford and Wilkie were sent to Calgary during last season along with Bruce Lea while the Stampeders sent veteran Steve Witiuk to the Warriors in a deal which was only for the balance of the season.

The deal was made permanent yesterday with the Warriors agreeing to give up Lea and Ford for Witiuk and then selling Wilkie to the Stamps. Immediately after that, the Stamps completed the deal with the Cougars.

NO SURPRISE

At 29, a 10-year veteran of professional hockey, Dorohoy was suspended near the end of last season and it was practically certain that he would not return to the Victoria club.

In letting him go, the Cougars gave up a considerable amount of punch. Always a threat on the attack, Dorohoy holds the league record for the most points. In 572 Western Hockey League games he scored 239 goals and was credited with 426 assists for 655 points. He took the all-time lead away from Bobby Love, who needed 634 games to amass 620 points during last season.

Dorohoy finished among the top 10 scorers in seven of his eight complete WHL seasons and won the scoring championship while playing with the Cougars in the 1950-51 season with 85 points.

GOOD CHECKERS

In exchange, the Cougars got two wingers who haven't been particularly dangerous in a scoring way but who are rugged checkers and a centre who is a pretty fair scorer.

The first modern-type rodeo, with prizes for cowboys, is believed to have been held at Pecos, Texas, in 1883.

Thomson, Thomas Meet Today To Decide British Open Title

By HENRY THORNBERRY

ST. ANNE'S-ON-THE-SEA, England (UPI)—Peter Thomson of Australia and Dave Thomas of England tied for the British open golf championship Friday with record 278's for the regulation four rounds and will meet in a 36-hole playoff today for the title.

Gene Sarazen of Germantown, N.Y., only American in today's final two rounds, made a gallant bid on his 56-year-old legs and finished with a 288. He

Just after Thomson and Thomas sank their putts on the final hole, news from the 18th green electrified the crowd and chilled the two leaders. O'Connor, the ruddy-faced Irishman from the lakes of Killarney, and the stringbean Ruiz both were two under fours at that point and needed not too difficult threes on the final hole to pass Thomson and Thomas.

BLOW CHANCE

But O'Connor and Ruiz landed in bunkers to ruin their hopes. O'Connor lipped the cup with a 15-footer and took a five on the final hole while Ruiz three-putted for a seven. O'Connor and Ruiz both claimed the crowd obscured their view of the final green.

Thomson, 28, three-time winner and never worse than second in the last nine British Open appearances, trailed the front-running O'Connor by three strokes when today's play began. The Australian, one of the calmest players in the game, fired a four-under-par 67 this morning to take a two-stroke lead over Thomas and Van Donck.

heavy rain this morning and a 72 after lunch, earning a rousing cheer when he sank his final putt.

EXCITING FINISH

Thomson and Thomas locked in a duel that had 10,000 fans roaring as they played the final green. Each shot a four to deadlock while bettering the previous tournament record set by Bobby Loche of South Africa in 1950 and 1957. Christie O'Connor of Ireland and Eric Brown of Scotland tied the old mark of 279 while tying for third place.

Flory Van Donck of Belgium and Leopoldo Ruiz of Argentina were next with 281s and Gary Player of South Africa followed with a 283.

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

Democracy and the majority vote are not the same thing. One of the most dangerous and destructive illusions is the popular idea that they are the same thing. This false notion will destroy democracy.

Mere majority rule is mob rule. By itself it means lynch law. Then was Pilate right when he agreed to the crowd's decision, "Crucify Him"? Was Caiaphas right when he argued "one man should die for the people"?

Majority vote alone means government by expediency.

A cynical politician, accused of abandoning his principles, retorted, "I must follow the people. Am I not their leader?"

This sort of leadership did not build our democracy and cannot keep it. It was built by the kind of man described in William Douglas' "An Almanac of Liberty" — men of conviction, who were imprisoned, beaten, and killed for their convictions.

They were the thin soil on the earth's surface which supplies our fruit and wheat and without which the world would be a desert.

Conviction and Courage

Democracy demands tolerance. Let us not, however, confuse tolerance with a fuzzy goodwillism, a menial attitude that resembles a vane. Unless men are guided by principles, we drift into chaos.

The survival of civilization depends upon men who have intelligent conviction and courage to challenge current prejudice and propaganda, however popular they may be.

Democracy demands friendship. Genuine community spirit is essential to development and progress. Also only in groups is truth found and conscience created and maintained. But conviction and sincerity must not be sacrificed to the current idolatry "Getting Along With People." Uniformity of belief and the mass mind are twin devils.

Democracy requires successful and aggressive business. It must have business men, however, who have a sense of responsibility.

A motion picture producer who says, "If they want us to make pictures in a sewer and they'll make money, we'll do it," prophesies the corruption of democratic life.

Die for His Beliefs

Aristotle's great man possessed certain cardinal virtues, of which intelligence, generosity, and self-reliance were crucial. While this great man would not be rash, he would yet be willing to face danger and lay down his life for his convictions. Yet without the magnanimous heart conviction becomes mean and warped.

Democracy believes in equality. But democracy is not a steam-roller operation by which, as Gilbert and Sullivan expressed it, "Everybody is somebody and nobody is anybody."

Such a concept has corrupted education by shaping it into a technique for vocational and social success.

Democracy contends that every man is free and should think for himself. But this does not mean contempt for authority.

Neither does it mean holding an opinion without knowing the facts, nor the confusion of undisciplined living.

Democracy is not a government so much as a description of character. It is a way of life that will be maintained by men of integrity rather than men who "know all the angles."

It will perish with people whose decisions are controlled by comfort and inclination. Such perennial babyhood leads, as Fromm says, to "the paralysis and destruction of the self." It leads to the paralysis and destruction of the state.

Battle of Boyne Services Sunday

Battle of the Boyne will be commemorated Sunday as members of the Loyal Orange, Ladies' Orange Benevolent and Loyal True Blue associations attend evening service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church. Members will meet at the Orange Hall on Courtney Street and march to the church.

In addition, a concert will be held by the groups in the Orange Hall at 8 p.m., July 12.

Sunday 'Comedy' Falls Flat in Pulpit

MIAMI (NANA) — Preachers who start their sermons with a funny story and pretend that it really happened to them either [illegible] their jokes to the TV comics.

And Arthur H. Maynard, chairman of the University of Miami department of religion, would prefer the latter. A Methodist minister himself, Mr. Maynard is urging a national campaign among his fellow ministers to "reconsider the use of humor in the sermon."

His own congregation is a frequent host to visiting preachers. One such preacher announced that he was reminded of a funny thing that happened to him the other day.

What he didn't know was that another visiting preacher had related the same funny story — also told as a personal incident — only a couple of months before.

"A string of pointless stories, often not very funny, only breaks the mood and actually gives the preacher an initial handicap instead of an advan[illegible] minister's function is not that of the entertainer, and no minister can successfully compete with the TV professional."

Mothers Help 'Get the Motors Going'

Salt Spring Island mothers took to the water yesterday to help with Colonist swim classes. Here they supervise kicking exercises, or as chief instructor Margie Naysmith says, "getting the motors going." Ninety-seven youngsters turned up at Colonist classes at Vesuvius Bay and the tide was so low it was decided to take them all in one class, with the mothers called in to help. Next week there will be a high tide and several different classes will be instructed. Today Colonist swim classes move to Duncan.—(Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman.)

Polio Total Falls

British Columbia may well chalk up one of the lowest polio years on record this year.

Provincial health officials said yesterday that only seven cases had been reported in the first six months this year as against 11 during the same period a year ago.

This year, however, two deaths from the disease occurred on an Indian reservation near Kelowna.

Last year there were no deaths.

They'll Be in Stampede Parade

Kids will mingle with buckskin when the Victoria Schools Pipe Band attends the Calgary stampede next week, taking part in the televised parade Monday morning. Polishing up their instruments yesterday in the last-minute rush before departure were, from left: Grad Marshall, 12, Margaret Brown, 13, and Gordon Troy, 14, three of the 15 enthusiastic young musicians in the band.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Mother of Three Loses Entire Month's Income

Yesterday was a black day for Mrs. Lois Campbell, of 1100 Esquimalt Road. The young mother of three small children lost her wallet containing about $75 somewhere downtown.

Mrs. Campbell, her husband in hospital on the mainland, is receiving welfare assistance for herself and the children. Thursday she had received and cashed her monthly cheque. It was while she was down town on a bill-paying and shopping trip that the black wallet vanished, between the City Hall and View on Douglas.

Since she will receive no more funds until the first of August, Mrs. Campbell hopes that someone will find the wallet and its contents, and return it to her. She can be reached by telephone through a friend at 2-9924.

For Blind

Homes Nearly Ready

Canadian National Institute for the Blind housing project in Victoria, first of its kind on the continent, is nearing completion.

H. B. Twiss, chairman of the seven-member board of administration for the unique low-rental housing project, said yesterday tenants had already been selected for the 30 units for couples and four single or [illegible] units.

Official opening date has not yet been set, but it is expected [illegible] on or about July 31.

CNIB officials are hoping the project on Humboldt between Cooper and Vancouver will be the first of a number of such housing programs for the blind across Canada.

'My Fur Lady' May Play Here

"My Fair Lady," the highly successful stage play by Moss Hart, versus students or everything Canadian, may play in the Royal Theatre late this month.

Theatre manager Cliff Denman said yesterday efforts were being made to show the play after its Vancouver run, which is slated June 30 for two weeks. However, if the play is held over in Vancouver for any length of time, a local engagement is unlikely.

PARIS (WNS)—Brigitte Bardot, sexiest star of French films, was recently introduced to the president of the World Bank, which lends money to underdeveloped countries.

When Mlle. Bardot heard that her new acquaintance was a banker, she asked if his bank could lend her some money to redecorate her new villa.

"I'm so sorry," he replied, "but my bank only lends money to the underdeveloped—which hardly applies to you."

TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther

A Davidson-Dunton, 46-year-old chairman of the CBC a post he held for 13 years, sent this message to his employees after resigning yesterday to become president of Carleton College in Ottawa.

It is an appointment which interests me very much particularly at this stage of my working life. I feel Carleton has some [illegible] and [illegible] for some attractive challenges. It has not been an easy decision to make. I shall leave the CBC with more regrets. I hope you will understand the pattern of our decision which led me to take the position I am about to take.

For me these have been wonderful years with the CBC. The best part of all has been associating with you. I do not think any company has more dedicated people. The CBC spirit is the best I will ever know. Your loyal, energetic efforts under difficult circumstances. I believe the future of national radio and television broadcasting is bright because of the dedicated staff of Canada for it. You have a fine general manager in Alphonse Ouimet and all of you I wish the very best as he carries on a great service for the nation.

New York reports say lack of sponsors and time factors in other programs may force Edward R. Murrow's program off the air. Sponsors of Nine shows CBS spaced ahead of the time for the past season. In Victoria Wednesday Murrow said he hoped to do one on Canada.

TV BITS Dick Contino, [illegible] and the movies. Maria Callas and Sir [illegible] at the Opera are broadcast live beginning next season. Dec. 999 and Confidential Report will show Rocky Roque Eager. Winners on a fish counter quiz. A version for Thursday. Buckskin is a western Tuesday. It is Beaver and a welcome addition to a summer diet of quizzes and repeats.

Dragnet will show "humanitarian mystery specials on ABC" starting August next season including "Scarlet Temptress and Strangler." There's an explanation will the controversial episode on pornographic movies was not on Crusade in Chastity. Confession incidentally, has been retitled "This Is Your Life Sentence is being a social comedy." Jackie Gleason may star in a Steel Hour drama next fall. The daytime version of Truth or Consequences will be carried next month. A pilot show is being called "The Movie Game." Martha Raye, one of the singing Rosses, died in Peekskill, N.Y. this week after a long illness. She was 49.

WHERE YOUR HOME BEGINS
TURN ADVERSITY INTO ADVANTAGE
A large quantity of lumber moved from the Island to Vancouver on truck, trailers and because of the uncertain outlook for transportation contract arrangements cannot be completed leaving extra stocks of lumber for disposal here at bargain prices. So if you are in the market for lumber in the next few weeks order now at big savings. Remember too that this stock has not been picked over and culled by other pending strikers. Sometimes for a short time may appear disorganizing but look a little deeper and could often find a situation which can be turned to advantage. If this is your opportunity to save read on.

ALFRED CARMICHAEL

Rita Del Mar's Daily Astrology

SATURDAY JULY 5

Today's Quotation: "The worth of a state in the long run is the worth of the individuals composing it." J. S. Mill.

Saturday for Everyone: Be calm, deliberate and will miss nothing important of a constructive nature if you enjoy some extra rest and light recreation today. Catch up with routine or minor tasks. Take no chances avoiding haste or over-work.

Look for Your Birthdate and Birthsign Below

March 21 to April 19 (Aries): Show your tactfully side. Unusual dilemmas regulate finances, take no chances.

Apr. 20 to May 20 (Taurus): [illegible]

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini): Adopt a diplomatic approach with elders and superiors as well as in personal matters.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer): Put a check rein on your impulse to express yourself today, particularly on matters of a personal and universal subject.

July 23 to Aug. 22 (Leo): Create savings at time of market. Don't credit or others to put the assistance.

Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 (Virgo): Take no part in doubtful conditions. Make time with prospects improve, be considerate of others.

Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 (Libra): Restore your energies and possessions. Put your workshop in good order.

Oct. 23 to Nov. 22 (Scorpio): Exhibit a tolerant broad-minded attitude toward others. Get your share of good prices.

Nov. 23 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius): [illegible] and foreign investment activities for an a quiet time.

Dec. 22 to Jan. 20 (Capricorn): Spend some extra funds for repose. Don't permit yourself to become nervous irritable.

Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 (Aquarius): Put a brake on other unusual impulses and expenditures lest your income decreases.

Feb. 19 to March 20 (Pisces): [illegible] Be diplomatic, let others see you at your best.

Birthdays Ahead: Good for entertaining, sociability, etc. July 7, 13, 15, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21.

Forest Fire Fighters 'Mop Up'

Provincial forest service officials report fire crews in many parts of the province are engaged in "Operation Mop-up" the dirty, unpleasant job of extinguishing the last remnants of scores of forest fires.

Cooler weather throughout B.C. has eased the fire threat considerably and only two fires were reported in the Vancouver forest district, which includes Vancouver Island, yesterday.

About 100 men are patrolling the Gold River blaze near Tofino which has now nearly burnt itself out. The other fire was a small one at Alert Bay.

Helicopters had to be used to fight another fire in the Telegraph Creek region, north of Prince Rupert, after a blaze broke out and quickly cut through about 40 acres.

The area is virtually inaccessible.

Officials said the hazard in the district was now low to moderate and that the situation for the moment, was fairly good.

Reciprocal Pink Cards In Effect

Superintendent of motor vehicles George Lindsay has advised police forces of the province of a new agreement, effective July 1, involving B.C., Alberta and Manitoba.

From that date on, motor vehicle liability insurance cards and financial responsibility cards of the three provinces will be acceptable in any of the three provinces.

A vacationing British Columbian involved in an accident in Alberta, for instance, will find his pink, white or yellow liability or responsibility cards valid at the scene. He need only present them to attending police officers.

Accident reports must, of course, be filled out in the usual way.

Thief Takes Fried Ants

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A hungry burglar with a sophisticated palate broke into a mid-town market here. Among the loot was 72 cans of friend ants, fried butterflies, baby bees, fried worms, smoked octupus, roast caterpillar and smoked frogs' legs.

Pembina Sponsors New Products Pipe

CALGARY (CP) — An $80,000,000 products pipeline from Alberta to the Pacific Coast is being proposed by Foothills Products Pipe Line Ltd., a new company incorporated by a group of Canadian business men sponsored by Pembina Pipe Line Ltd. and other interests.

The company said today it has studied a gathering system to tie in liquid byproducts from present and future Alberta natural gas fields and investigation has been made on a proposed route, design and economics of a products line.

The byproducts from gas wells can be marketed, a spokesman said, and the anticipated new line would enable competition on the west coast and world markets from ocean ports.

King Fisherman

Action Off Sooke As Big Ones Show

Featured fishing report of the week in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest comes from Sooke, where king-sized salmon have been giving anglers fishing off the traps and Otter Point some heavy action.

A Vancouver fisherman, John Chaplin, will have quite a story to tell his Mainland friends after two trips off Otter Point netted him seven spring salmon averaging more than 25 pounds.

Out on Monday, Chaplin boated a 37½-pounder, a 30-pounder and two 16-pounders for a fine limit. Back again on Tuesday, he came in with a 39½-pounder, a 29-pounder and a 13½-pounder. Total weight for two trips was an imposing 182 pounds.

But others scored, too. C. H. Miller boated a 43-pound, 10-ounce salmon, Jack Seedhouse a 38-pounder, Marvin Moore a 33-pounder and the other entries from Juan de Fuca Auto Court included five other fish between 22¾ and 29½ pounds.

Strip-Teasers accounted for most of the big ones and most anglers found that eight ounces of weight and 60-75 feet of line provided the best depth.

Elsewhere, fishing was fair in Saanich Inlet, slow off Oak Bay and good Up-Island, particularly between Comox and Shelter Bay, for coho.

RCAF to Get 'Nose' To Sniff Sub Fumes

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF Argus, a hunter and killer of submarines, will be equipped with a fantastic new device which "smells out" enemy subs.

The device can best be described as a "breath analyzer." It was developed by the United States Navy in which it is known popularly as "sniffer gear."

Submarines equipped with snorkel breathing devices emit gas exhaust fumes into the atmosphere.

The equipment to be carried in the Argus will make constant chemical analysis of the air. The analysis will determine the presence of fumes from a snorkel-breathing sub.

The four-engine Argus was developed and is being manufactured by Canadair Ltd., Montreal. Two squadrons at Greenwood, N.S., will be equipped with this plane.

The RCAF has a third anti-sub squadron at Comox, B.C. It now is being equipped with Neptunes to replace its old Lancasters and may also eventually get the Argus.

The "sniffer gear" will be useless against atomic submarines, which can remain submerged for long periods of time.

Sansum Narrows Closed 11 Days

Sansum Narrows, between Salt Spring Island and Vancouver Island, will be closed to all marine traffic for short periods between July 7 and 17.

An overhead transmission line will be strung adjacent to, and 75 feet north of the existing line crossing. Two tugs and a motor launch will stand by to warn vessels.

Mariners were also advised of two additional underwater cables across Trincomali Channel between Salt Spring and Parker Islands.
